LONDON, June 17.—"Why There Will No War" is the title of an article appearing today in Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, which after explaining that accepting the inevitability of war is only a state of mind, proceeds to show why war will not come in spite of the general idea of the British public that it is just around the corner.

BUSINESSMEN SEE BUILDING REVIVAL LOOM

Best in Canadian Industry As Applied To Exemptions Viewed

Strong approval of the Dominion Budget brought down by Finance Minister Charles Bennett was expressed by a majority of representative Edmonton citizens Friday, cancellation of the sales tax on building materials being held as one of the biggest benefits in the budget.

Leading Edmonton businessmen pointed to the fact that Canada's decreasing deficit showed a gradual return to prosperity and indicated a stable federal administration. Opinions on the budget follow:

Acting Mayor A.L. Patterson: The Liberal government has been congratulated on the budget generally, and particularly for its action in removing the sales tax on building materials. Edmonton, in common with other Canadian municipalities, is going to reap big benefits from this. It will give impetus to the contemplated building boom, and the advantages will be shared by a large number of tax-payers. I don't think the government could have hit on a better way of assisting the Canadian people than by the removal of this tax. The effect of this step will be to

PLAGUE EXPERT MEETS DEATH IN AIRPLANE CRASH

British United Press
DAR-SE-SALAM, Tanganyika, June 17.—Charles Francis MacEwen, 61, who was killed recently in an air crash in central Tanganyika territory, was one of the world's foremost experts on the tsetse fly.

His body, together with the bodies of two companions, was discovered in the wreckage of the plane by Royal Air Force planes 50 miles from Singida, in central Tanganyika. The plane had been missing for three days.

MacEwen had been director of the Tsetse Research in Tanganyika since 1923. He had devoted 15 years to combating the fly, which is the carrier of the sleeping sickness (trypanosomiasis) or nagana. He was author of many articles on the tsetse fly and other biological subjects.

BOBBY RIDES LOOP LINE AS CITY SEARCHED

CALGARY, June 17.—While anxious parents and city police searched the city for nearly four hours last night, five-year-old Bobby McKillop, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. McKillop, was riding around in his "loop" street car.

Missing since 7:30 p.m. when he wandered away from home, the boy was reported "found" at 11:10 p.m. when the street car motorman noticed police. The boy was taken to the city hall and four found tips on the car.

What Follows?

Disallowance of the Securities Tax Act and the Home Owners' Security Act does not pay ruinously high interest bearing mortgage debts, settle how they are to be paid, or make any headway toward clearing up the "mess." It merely restores the situation that existed four months ago.

This attempt on the part of the province having been vetoed, the reasonable assumption is that the Dominion authority will be exerted to deal with that situation, facilitate the readjustment and settlement of debts and clear up the "mess," which the legislature apparently cannot do.

In his review of the legislation, Hon. Ernest Lapointe says the Act for the Security of Home Owners "makes no distinction between debtors who are able to pay and those who are not." The legislature cannot draw such line of distinction; it must deal with all alike if it deals with any. But the Dominion can discriminate in this way, and has already done so by enacting the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act.

Under this Act farm debts have been readjusted and settlements arranged which are binding upon debtors and creditors, and in which the ability of the debtor to pay has been taken fully into account with interest rates limited to a maximum of 5 per cent. But with only one board of settlement in the province the process was so slow there was no prospect of a final clearance being reached in the next fifty years. The House of Commons has amended the Act to permit the appointment of more than one board in a province, but the Senate has held up the amending bill. The Arrangement Act is therefore, for the time being, no more useful than it has been, and there is no certainty that the Senate will permit its machinery to be enlarged.

Meantime the Provincial Government will reinstate the moratorium that was in effect before the disallowed legislation was passed. Its power to do this is unquestioned.

If the Arrangement Act, in addition to the amendments already approved by the House, were broadened to cover mortgage debts on urban homes, it would provide the machinery for the readjustment and settlement of all mortgage debts in the province, with due regard to the difference between "debtors who are able to pay and those who are not." Meanwhile the moratorium will keep the situation unchanged and protect urban homeowners as well as farmers against foreclosure.

Along those lines there is a chance for co-operative action by the federal and provincial authorities to get the present unpayable debt "mess" cleared up as quickly as practicable and settlements made on a reasonable basis fair to debtors and creditors alike.

Getting Back Into Balance

The financial statement presented by Hon. Charles Dunning in the course of his budget speech will be hailed with general satisfaction as showing how rapidly balance is being restored between the income and the expenditures of the Dominion.

A year ago the Minister had to announce a deficit for the year amounting to $77,851,000, two years ago a shortage of more than twice that amount. For 1937-38 he foresees a possible deficit of $35,000,000. The event proved better than the expectations by nearly two-thirds, the actual deficiency being $13,771,000.

Revenue for the year was the largest in history. Ordinary expenditure was more than $100,000,000 less. But extraordinary expenditures, including $43,000,000 for general relief, $24,000,000 for drought relief, and $44,000,000 for the National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines changed the picture on ordinary account into the deficit cited.

A balanced budget is not the "sumo bonum" in times of distress. But a series of recurrent deficits—now running for eight years—cannot be continued indefinitely without disaster. That the Dominion is now practically on a "pay as you go" basis means that the year amounting to resources to deal with unemployment and distress conditions on a scale not hitherto possible without piling up more unpayable interest bearing debt.

The Changes Are Few

On the basis of present income, the proposed securities of the Dominion during the present fiscal year would result in a deficit of $23,000,000 next March. Increasing business is relied upon to bring in the added revenue to offset this possible deficit. Consequently there are no tax increases in the budget presented at Ottawa yesterday.

Nor—if anyone expected such—were there many tax reductions the average taxpayer will feel in his pocket. Lumber and other building materials are to be exempt from sales tax, as an aid to the housing campaign and encouragement to construction generally. Gifts are to be exempted from income taxation somewhat more generously in the lower brackets, but those who give large gifts will pay more. Corporations which make grants to pension funds of employees will be forgiven income taxation on these amounts.

The tariff is unchanged, for the reason that the trade agreement with the United States is not yet completed. Since Great Britain and the United States, Canada's two best customers, will only reduce tariffs by agreement, Canada is following suit.

There are no startling proposals in the list. It does not look like an election-year budget. Rather the impression is that, since the country is making substantial if unspectacular progress towards recovery and the income is growing, the present set-up is not to be disturbed.

Wednesday's Farce

Of 11,500 burgesses of the city who were qualified to vote on the money bylaw on Wednesday, just 2,408 went to the polls. Of these 1,192 voted for the bylaw, 1,204 voted against it, and six spoiled their ballots. The bylaw thus failed to carry by a margin of 12 votes.

Approximately one-fifth of the qualified voters voted. Of these, for each 100 who voted for the bylaw, 101 voted against it. Thus, by decision of one-hundredth of one-fifth of the qualified burgesses the fate of the bylaw was settled.

This surely is the climax to a long series of ridiculous situations that have resulted from the submitting of money bylaws to Edmonton burgesses in "off bylaws." Four-fifths of them were not interested enough to vote. How they would have voted no one knows. Of what actual value is the endorsement or rejection of a bylaw under such circumstances?

If it is hoped to get a fairly representative expression of opinion on a money bylaw, the time to submit it is on civic election day, when interest in mayoral and aldermanic contests draws voters to the polls. That is particularly true of a bylaw which—like the school bylaw—is of direct interest only to people in one section of the city. Voters elsewhere simply do not in general bother to vote, and the issue is left to the small proportion who may be actively interested in supporting or opposing the proposal.

The school bylaw, it is to be supposed, will be submitted again when the elections are held in November. And when something like a representative vote may be expected. Fairness demands that this be done. It will not do to compel Glenora children to go to school in an alleged fire-trap and Westmount pupils to journey two or three miles to high school rather than try to find out what the burgesses at large really think about it.

Our Canadian "Cities"

Another thing that might well be standardised throughout the Dominion is the population required before a community may be incorporated as a city? For many years an Ontario town could become a city if it possessed a population in excess of 10,000, and it has been repeatedly suggested that Brockville should take advantage of that stipulation and incorporate as a city. Within recent years, however, the provincial legislature has raised the bar to 15,000. The population now required of a community before it may legally attain cityhood. At that rate, it appears that Brockville will have to wait for some years before it joins the other cities of the province. But in Manitoba a place may still become a city when it has 10,000 or over. In Alberta, a city means a community of 4,000 or more, and in British Columbia it is actually the law that any place with 100 male inhabitants may become incorporated as a city.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

U. S. Farm Policy

There seems to be little doubt that farm relief measures adopted in the United States will benefit Canada, even though the measure of their benefit to American farmers will be very doubtful. If the price of wheat in that country drops below 50 cents, or if the July estimate is above normal requirements, and these are estimated at about 700,000,000 bushels, there are said to be made available to farmers. In return for them, the farmers receiving loans will guarantee a reduction in acreage next year. The United States is a competitor of Canada in world markets, the reduction of acreage in that country will benefit us here.

It is no business of this country to criticize these and similar measures in the United States. Long as that, as, as like panacea are not adopted here. The U.S. cotton growers have had the effect of stimulating production elsewhere, have made the U.S. cotton growers more dependent on home markets, have lost to them markets abroad which they firmly held. If similar plans are adopted here, the U.S. wheat-growers, Canada, which is primarily an export country and must remain so, will throw up its hat and cheer. All the more of the export market will be left for us.

The U.S. plan is based on the fact that production can be limited by acreage reduction. The hazards of such a scheme are obvious. Over a long-run period there will be correlation of these two factors. Over a short-run period there will be none. Reduction in Canadian acreage last year, for instance, would have done little to effect the total, for more than 12,000,000 acres seeded to wheat were ruined by drought. The short-run development is that the U.S. treasury will have to pay out through some other means the loss, no one knows. But it is enough at the moment for Canada to go on growing wheat, in the happy consciousness that one of its world competitors is cutting its own throat.—Windsor Free Press.

A Bonanza for C.P.R. Shareholders

Sir Edward Beatty, in his evidence before the Senate committee, pointed out that he is "a suggested" any guarantee of C.P.R. securities as part of a unification plan. And why? "Because I am convinced," he said, "that no guarantee of interest on the debenture stock and bonds of the Canadian Pacific would be given to the public. The answer is that while he did not suggest a guarantee, he did suggest another arrangement which takes its place. It was this: "That each share of the C.P.R. and government securities should continue to receive unification of the net earnings which past experience indicates they would have received had the company been an institution, and that the additional net earnings made available by unification be shared between them on an equitable basis."

Now let us see what that means.

"Past experience" has been, for the C.P.R. net earnings which enable it to pay its bond interest, 4 per cent, of (late year 2 per cent) on its preferred stock. An arrangement based on past experience, such as Mr. Beatty suggests, would mean that the common stock would receive 2 per cent. Over and above this, the C.P.R. would receive its share (Sir Edward tentatively suggests 30 per cent) of the large savings which the claims unification would provide. If the stock had received 4 per cent, there would thus be a balance for interest on the common stock, which at present receives nothing.

In other words, Sir Edward does not suggest a direct government guarantee of C.P.R. bonds and preferred shares because his plan provides that the capital charges on those would have to be provided out of earnings in the future as they have been in the past, with a share of unification savings as an additional bonus. For an industry as uncertain as the steam railway industry is today, that is indeed a handsome provision—a provision which would raise the value of the common stock, and thus confer a handsome gift upon its holders. Sir Edward did not hesitate to say in his evidence that he had proposed to the Canadian Pacific Insurance of interest and dividends: "Unification would permit the Canadian Pacific to earn a fair return on its investment capital." He was asked: "Q.—The return to the Canadian Pacific shareholders would be quite sure for an indefinite time in the future?" A.—"I think so."

It is little wonder that Sir Edward anticipates an enthusiastic acceptance of such a plan by C.P.R. shareholders. "Let us assume," he said, "that the common stock would be given the advantage to their properties and earnings by the unification." Q.—"And the reason they would likely agree would be that, having regard to the present position, they would look forward to receiving a return on these shares indefinitely?" A.—"Exactly. They would regard their future as secure." And again: "The common stock would see no difficulty in getting the approval of every form of security holder of the Canadian Pacific in the late 1930s, and the common stock would be improved by the improvement in the future earning power of his own company."

In brief, the C.P.R. shareholders would not be disappointed. The C.P.R. is applying to the Railway Commission for approval of its plan to give loans of $100,000,000 to the Government. An annex to accommodate 46 patients will be built at the University hospital.

Your Health

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, June 18, 1938:

HANNAH F. asks: "I have been troubled with prolapsus and the physician in charge has advised injections of sodium salicylate, strychnine and iodine. I have had the treatment faithfully but with no result. Am I doing the right thing?"

ANSWER: The term prolapsus is referring to an inflammation of the rectal region. The treatment your doctor has suggested is frequently used with good effect, inasmuch as it has a soothing effect. However, in many cases, the trouble continues until the intestinal condition is cleared up. I suggest that the best plan is to re-examine the condition and have your doctor consulted. I could not hope to give you special advice about your case without being familiar with the details.

QUESTION—Hannah F. asks: "I am taking a course in bacteriology and the professor made the statement that most deaths are not due to disease but to bacteria. Is this correct?"

ANSWER: As a general rule, most deaths are the result of degenerative changes in one or more vital organs, for example, heart disease, diabetes, Bright's disease, and blood vessel catastrophes brought on by high blood pressure. Bacteria are not the cause of death in more than a few of the germ diseases. Of course, there are "exceptions to this rule, although it is not a mortality rate. Do you hold a similar opinion?"

Miss Holland Is Bride Of Mr. Christian

Quarter to eight roused the bride chosen for a lovely wedding ceremony on Thursday evening when, in a flower setting in the social room of First Presbyterian church, Miss Holland, bride, and Mr. Christian, groom, were united in holy matrimony.

Marriage services were read by Rev. R. K. Cameron, in the presence of immediate friends and relatives.

The daughter of Mrs. H. A. Holland, popularly known in club circles as the city and is a member of the First of Chester chapter I.O.D.E. Mr. Christian is the eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. Irvine Christian, also of this city.

ON GRECIAN LINES

Mr. R. D. Holland gave his sister in marriage and for her wedding the wore an all-white gown of snowy georgette, modelled on simple Grecian lines. The bride's hair was styled in a high, elegant bun. A gleaming white length jacket with short sleeves added to her frock and a veil of silk net falling from a Juliet cap on her head completed her lovely bride's ensemble. Her shoe bouquet was of pale pink roses and carnations.

Acting as matron of honor, Mrs. H. C. Link of Wexley, for the occasion wore the net over satin, her frock relieved by tiny frills of pink lace to the floor, and short puffed sleeves, with which she wore white mittens. Accompanying the bride were in attractive contrast to her dress and dress, pink carnations and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Wexley Christian supported his brother as groomsmen.

GREY LACE REDINGOTE

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holland looked very smart in a business gown of grey lace, fashioned on the redingote style. The dress was in orchid, and her hair, a grey picture model, was combed in curls.

Mrs. Christian, mother of the bridegroom, was the flower of the occasion in a white gown of flowered cotton on a white background. Her picture hat was in white, and she wore other accessories, and she wore a corsage of white carnations and forget-me-nots.

After a wedding trip to Jasper, Mr. and Mrs. Christian left by train for a wedding trip to Jasper.

WILL BE HERE

For travelling the bride chose a tailored dress in navy blue with white, with the white spots and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian will make their home in Edmonton.

Red Deer U.F.W.A. Protests Against Land Relief Act

THREE HILLS, June 17.—Dissension by members of the U.F.W.A. of the Red Deer constituency on the Agricultural Land Relief Act is being held in Three Hills recently and resulted in the passing of an unanimous resolution "whereas the act is in the hands of the minister of municipal affairs and greatly increases the burden of taxation on the agricultural, be it resolved that the Red Deer constituency meeting in Three Hills strongly protest to the so-called reduction tax as proposed by the act."

Mrs. Learned, director, presided at the meeting and addresses were given by Mrs. D. L. McLaughlin, of the provincial training school at Red Deer, who spoke on the "Sterilization Act."

The average life expectancy of a new car is nearly nine years, in 1926 it was six years.

On such a day as this those beautiful eyes

First opened on the world and to trace

Its lines of beauty, and to mark

Of all that God has given to man.

For the first time she learns how much to prize

the good things which God has given to him, or his day.

And that for land—dark in color, to be because

It is the land of her wish, to be dear.

Green, there it lies, and round it

A line of dancing waves, where friends

On this new shore, but friends can here you see.

For the first time she learns how much to prize

Provincial Head Of Rebekahs Is Interesting City Visitor

The visit to the city for a day this week of Mrs. M. E. Fox of Cranfield, Alberta, has been a very pleasant and happy one for her only daughter, Miss Gordon, who is a member of the First of Chester chapter I.O.D.E. Officially at the service, which took place in the social room of First Presbyterian church was Rev. R. K. Cameron, who read the wedding prayer to Jasper, Mr. and Mrs. Christian will make their home in Edmonton.

"Membership of nearly 200 persons in the lodges in Edmonton speaks well for the interest and keenness of members here," she said in tribute to the members with whom she spent Thursday, Edmonton is one of our strongest holds, and progressing in every way.

"Just how much fraternal organizations can play in the life and development of the individual and the life of the community, cannot be minimized," said Mrs. Fox, "and the Rebekahs are a very real social unit in the life of the country."

While in Edmonton, Mrs. Fox and her husband who is district director of the Rebekahs, were the guests of Mrs. Matilda Williams, 1924 80 avenue.

Encouraging in every way is Rebekah lodge news, and she had only lady progress to report. "Incentives among my lodge members," she said cheerfully.

The smaller ones, especially, are increasing in numbers, and only a provincial president can really know how heartening that news can be.

VIOLET ISABEL CUMMING

steno-grapher in the mechanical department of the Canadian National Railway, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, coming to Canada in 1907. She obtained her education at schools in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, and at McDougall College, Winnipeg.

She commenced her business career in 1908 as a stenographer in the mechanical department of the C.N.R. and has since been employed in a similar capacity in the mechanical department of the same company.

The name of Violet Cumming has long been prominently associated with things musical in Edmonton, this gifted contralto having sung at many of the social and musical affairs, both at concerts and on the stage.

Miss Cumming, who is a soloist with Robertson Church choir, is also a member of the choir of the leading St. James church and also sang in Chicago with the famous Chicago Civic Chorus.

Competing in the Alberta musical competition in 1926 she made musical history by winning the gold medal in the contralto class, the Women's Musical Club award, and the gold medal in the contralto class.

The following year, when the festival was held in Calgary, she won not only the contralto cup, but also the St. James church cup, open to all gold medalists of a former contest.

In 1929 and 1930 she studied in Detroit, with Cameron McLean, Scotch baritone, and with Miss Helen St. James, soprano, in Detroit and Pittsburgh.

She passed her advanced Royal Academy examinations with honorable mention in 1931 and in 1932 obtained her L.R.S.M.

She has sung the leading roles in many local operatic productions, and has also been heard over the C.B.C. and the C.B.O.

In 1935 she was guest artist in a "Presenting Program" over the C.B.C. and has since been heard in the programs "An Evening of Classics," "An Evening of Songs," and "After Twilight." She was also soloist in the "Woodland Echoes" quartet heard throughout the 1936-1937 season.

Her musical career was accorded to Miss Cumming in 1937 when she was invited to be soloist at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers Association in Winnipeg.

She is also a representative of the staff of the Canada Association company were present and during the week-end guests were made the recipients of a handsome gift of furniture.

Mrs. J. K. Corwell who has been staying at the Guest House, 301 10th Ave., for the past three weeks, has gone to Vancouver on business.

Her daughter, Miss Pearl Corwell, is expected to visit a month in Jasper with her.

GOLDMAN'S THIRD STRAIGHT WESTERN TITLE

Picking Winner Has Fight Experts on Rope

NEW YORK, June 17.—The closer they get to the fistie festivities the dizzier the sports experts are becoming in the attempt to decide whether champion Joe Louis will turn the tables on Max Schmeling, next Wednesday night, or again take it on the chin from the German challenger for the world heavyweight crown.

Not since the second Dempsey-Tunney bout in Chicago has opinion in critical circles been more sharply divided or as uncertain. Dempsey, the challenger, finally went out the ring in 1927 a slight favorite, despite the decisive licking he took from Tunney the previous year.

Again the beaten man, Louis, has been given the favorite's role, though for somewhat different reasons. In Dempsey's case, sentiment combined with the old masters' punch to make him the public choice. The so-called "win money" now backing Louis seems convinced the champion's youth, plus his punch and the law of averages, will prove too much for Schmeling.

VERBAL CONFLICT

Today, after Cauliflower Alley, the $500,000 mark was set, verbal conflict went something like this: "Louis will come out running and finish him quick."

"If Joe opens up early he will get his brains knocked out by Max's right hand."

"The longer the fight goes the better the champion's chances will be, that left jab of will wear Schmeling down."

KEW STARTER

"Schmeling has always been a slow starter; the longer the fight goes, the stronger and tougher he will be."

"Louis is worried about Max's right hand... Well, how he beats his eyes every time they're tagged by a sparring partner?... Max will have the psychological edge, right from the start."

"Joe regards that last right as just an accident... He's not just one life in mind—ever—no. He won't make any mistakes this time."

"Schmeling is worried, realizing he was lucky to have everything break right for him the last time."

"Schmeling is worried, realizing he was lucky to have everything break right for him the last time."

U.S. Owned Flares Takes Famed Gold Cup

ASCOT, Eng. June 17.—A great trophy of the English turf went overseas Thursday when Flare, a son of the Kentucky Derby winner, Gallant Fox, and owned by William Woodward, defeated an international field of 10 in the Ascot gold cup.

Battling to a finish reminiscent of that of two years ago when the winner's full brother, Omaha, was beaten by Lord Stables' little filly, Quaker, by a matter of inches, Flare defeated Lord (Glenn) Buckley by a neck in a fine display of stamina in one of the longest races of the turf calendar, 2 1/2 miles.

The same margin separated Buckley and the third horse, W. Barlett's Senior, as Marcel Boussac's 2 to 1 favorite, the French-bred Dadi, and A. Gordon Smith's Pearl Fox, the choice of the English, sentries at 5 to 2, finished fifth and seventh, respectively.

Flare, taking the lead with a strong run at the last turn, a furious challenge, covered the distance in four minutes, 19.3 seconds, 3 1/8 seconds outside the record. He returned 100 to 1 in the betting and won for Mr. Woodward the winner's share of a purse of £7500 (£37500).

MONTE VISTA, Colo. June 17.—Any golfer would sympathize with Ned Thompson, who finished 17th in a recent 17-hole interclub tournament, comfortably ahead of the field. His tee shot was a beauty, but as Thompson finished his ball, he suddenly fell to the ground. Doctors found he had dizzied a knee.

Feeling Comfortable

I walked around the course a few days ago with Clarence McDougal, Kelland, Gerald and P. H. Sims and Dr. L. A. Newman. Kelland and Newman played Rice and Stone. The match was about even, because none played particularly on the occasion.

Kelland handed me a few laughs by complaining bitterly over the fact that he was lined up properly for the shot, but would fly.
